City Officials Submit Pollution Control Plan

Cameron city officials have submitted to the Texas Water Quality Board a municipal water pollution control and abatement proposal, as required by the Legislature in Senate Bill 835 passed last year. Deadline for receipt of the proposals by cities of 5,000 population and more, was May 1. The law affects 230 cities in the state, though only 150 made the May 1 deadline.

The proposal will be reviewed by the TWQB staff in Austin for final approval at a later date.

In essence, the legislation simply requires that water pollution control responsibilities and powers already existing be carried out on a systematic basis, and within a program considered satisfactory by the TWQB technical staff. Cities are required to make an inventory of all significant waste dischargers; conduct regular monitoring of waste discharges, including inspections and sampling; develop a procedure for obtaining compliance, including legal enforcement if necessary; and to plan pollution abatement from such sources as runoff from streets, parking lots and other urban facilities.

The TWQB is charged, by the legislation, with the responsibility of assisting and advising the cities in the implementation of the program. Sam Slaughter, program director for the TWQB, during March and April, met with representatives of the cities concerned, through the state's 24 Councils of Government to explain the program, and to offer the help of the TWQB.

NASA LOSES BALLOON - And the parts scattered, with the "payload", above, landing in a cotton field at Yarrellton, the balloon landing in Clifford Angell's back yard, and the load's parachute reportedly at Hearne. Above, NASA technicians from Houston examine the weather balloon's $1 million payload which held instruments to record weather data. The balloon was gathered up and loaded on a truck, and the parts were transported back to Houston for investigation of a malfunction which prevented the payload's parachute from opening properly. The balloon, made of thin plastic, measured 374 feet in diameter, or large enough to fill the Astrodome. The weather balloons fly at 130,000 feet or 25 miles up in the air. The payload, which fell about 6:30 a.m., presented a puzzling sight to farmers in the area as it lay in the field smoking for a while.

Housing Authority Funded

M.D. Barkley, chairman of the Regional Housing Authority of America, received word Thursday from Cong. W. R. Poage that the authority has been allocated $2.9 million in long term rental assistance funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to lease 100 units of newly constructed single family dwellings in the eight-county authority.

The authority, to be headquartered in Marlin, is composed of Robertson, Milam, Burleson, Leon, Falls, Limestone, Freestone, and Bell counties.

The executive director of the authority is Sam Lattimore of Waco. Narvie Caperton of Cameron is the board member for Milam County.

Lattimore said Thursday that officers of the First National Bank of Waco have been working with him and the board to provide approximately $1.5 million in permanent loan funds to construct the homes in the eight-county region.

Bank officials have stated that the unique program offers the opportunity for government and private enterprise to work together to create a better environment for many families of the region.

The program, which has been in the planning and development stage for over a year, will be to assist the region in upgrading the housing available to low and moderate income families.

The 100 units of three, four, and five bedroom homes will be available to rent on the basis of income and will provide an opportunity for the families to acquire equity while renting.

Fourteen will be built in Milam County.

Construction is expected to be underway in the various towns within 120 days and the program will take 18 months to complete.

This project is the first of its kind in Texas and it is expected that other areas will be using the method to help overcome housing shortages in the smaller communities and rural areas of the state.

It seems you can learn anything at college these days. McLennan Community College at Waco is offering a number of non-credit courses for adults in May, and the list includes "Techniques of Successful Fishing," the cost to be $11.

Labor Unions Contribute

ROCKDALE

Both Rockdale labor unions have made generous contributions to the Richards Memorial Hospital building fund drive, Glenn Hodges, campaign chairman announced. United Steelworkers Local 4895 and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 2078 have each provided a contribution of $1,500 thereby donating a hospital room each, Hodges explained.

Tuition Fees Raised

GEORGETOWN

Tuition for out of district student transfers was raised from $185 to $200, and architects to begin preparations for a new high school were put under contract by the Georgetown school board. The architects said they were prepared to gear the new school plant to the new teaching methods. Schools now are not built on a grid pattern, but with functional and movable partitions, the architects explained.

Percy Foreman Posts Bond

HEARNE

Bond was posted in Edinburg by Attorney Percy Foreman for Mrs. Louise Scott Gannon who was arrested in Las Vegas, Nevada on a perjury charge in the Charles Harrelson murder trial last year. Mrs. Gannon, who sings in night clubs as "Lou Scott" had refused to waive extradition to Texas. Mrs. Gannon was called as the last defense witness at the Harrelson trial.

Winds Damage Marina

SOMERVILLE

High winds caused extensive damage to the Big Creek Marina at Somerville Lake last week. The fishing pier was torn from the marina in three sections. The Marina is under new management and owners say plans are being made for new added facilities, including an enclosed air conditioned fishing pier.

Paving Program Doomed

TEMPLE

A paving and assessment program for 15 city blocks was ruled temporarily unfeasible by the Temple City Commission. Fiscal consultants painted a dismal picture for the proposed street improvements, saying "It would be very costly." The 15 blocks are located in the south, east and north sections of the city -- "quite scattered." Move in and move out costs for the contractor to do the job would make the cost to the property owners "prohibitive," consultants said.

$270,453 County's Under Revenue Sharing

Milam County would receive a total of $270,453 for allocation to all governmental units in the county under the General Revenue-Sharing Bill which has been approved by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Gov. Preston Smith released the information, adding that the bill would provide a total of $202 million during the first year to cities and counties of Texas. Allocation of funds would be retroactive to January 1, 1972.

Of the total allocated to the county, the county government would receive $191,346; the city of Cameron $40,971 and the city of Rockdale $30,874.

The balance would be distributed to other cities and towns within the county.

"We have worked closely with the Committee and Chairman Wilbur Mills," Smith said, "to provide all assistance which would be helpful to the Committee in their deliberations. As a result of this close communication, we are now receiving detailed information as to specific allocations to the various counties of the State."

"It would appear from these early estimates that the bill, if finally enacted, will provide substantial fiscal relief to the hard-pressed cities and counties of Texas," Smith said. "At the same time it will afford a real opportunity to improve and expand on those services which the people feel are most critically needed."

Candidates List Expenses

The two candidates for District 36 position of state representative filed their statements of expenses with Secretary of State Bob Bullock.

Rep. Charles Patterson listed his total expenses as $3772.47 and debts incurred as $1277. He has received $2375 in contributions and gifts and has total loans of $1500.

Rep. Dan Kubiak listed his total expenses as $2979.55 with contributions of $2972.92. Kubiak listed no loans and no debts incurred.

Candidates will also file a supplementary list after the primary has been held.

Public To Private: 'Over'

Permits for new construction in Cameron are beginning to reflect the modernization downtown and new housing starts.

The first quarter showed $260,650 in permits, including a department store, a number of houses and some improvement.

This is the biggest first quarter mark in several years. And the announced starts since May 1 will push the total higher when a new bank, supermarket and other housing are underway.

It is a convincing start in the private economy that investment in the public sector made possible. Private moneys heretofore were not coming forth in this sector of the community.

Cleanup 'Round Town...

City officials glimpsed snapshots of a number of lots or crumbling buildings around Cameron at the last council meeting.

Most of the pictures show places needing either total housecleaning, hauling off of old cars or dismantling of old structures.

Once someone takes a good look at the lot or junk piled up, it usually doesn't take long to get it cleaned up.

It is often the case that people get used to a place that way and won't take the time or devote the energy to cleaning it up.

These pictures demonstrate how bad isolated lots and old structures look when a camera focuses on such blight.

It is usually possible to pay some or all the cost of cleanup like this by selling the salvage. It would be a good project to push for six months and see the results.

Heroin Called Nation's Number One Enemy

By Anthony Goodman
Reuter Correspondent

NEW YORK

It looks like a harmless white powder and its nicknames are just as innocent -- "Horse," "Smack," "Harry," "Sugar," and "Snow."

The innocuous - looking substance is heroin, now the object of an all-out war on who recently branded it "public enemy number one."

According to latest official estimates, the drug has a grip on the lives of some 560,000 Americans who exist only from one "fix" to the next.

In the past 10 years heroin addiction in the U.S. has soared ten-fold. If this rate continues unchecked the eipdemic could develop into a national catastrophe, officials warn, with millions of people "hooked" on the drug.

To co-ordinate the fight against herion, most widely used of the so-called "hard" drugs, President Nixon earlier this year created a new office of drug abuse law enforcement as part of the Justice Department.

This followed the establishment in the White House of the special action office for drug abuse prevention, to oversee activities related to rehabilitation, research and education.

Just a month ago, President Nixon signed legislation putting $1 million behind the fight against drugs over the next three years.

To underline the importance he attaches to the anti-narcotics campaign he flew the previous day to New York City, which accounts for more than 150,000 of the nations drug addicts, and conferred on the program with an array of officials, including Governor Nelson Rockerfeller.

"More money will be needed in the future and more money will be available," the President pledged. "We must have no budget cuts in waging total war on public enemy number one."

MONEY INVOLVED

The astronomic sums of money involved in the illicit drug traffic are one of the main reasons for the difficulty in stamping it out.

Ten kilograms of raw opium sold to an underworld broker for $400 will produce about 45,000 packets of diluted heroin selling for five dollars each on a back street in New York, Chicago or Miami.

The vast profits also provide plenty of ready cash for bribing officials.

According to U.S. narcotics experts, most of the heroin smuggled into the U.S. originates in the opium fields of Turkey.

After being partially refined into morphine base, it is shipped to one of a network of illicit laboratories around marseilles where it is turmed into pure heroin.

SMUGGLED IN

From there it is smuggled into the US. Methods used in recent years have included hiding it in the bodywork of cars, concealing it inside crates of champagne, and packing it in the luggage of unscrupulous diplomats who claim immunity from customs inspection.

Once in the U.S., the heroin is "cut" or diluted with substances such as milk sugar or quinine so that, by the time it is injected into an addict's veins, it may be only three per cent pure.

The cost in human misery is staggering. In New York City alone last year some 1,100 people died of heroin overdoses or related causes -- nearly as many as the number of Americans killed in Vietnam during the same period.

The after-effects of narcotics is the largest single cause of death among New Yorkers between the ages of 15 and 35.

BABIES ADDICTED

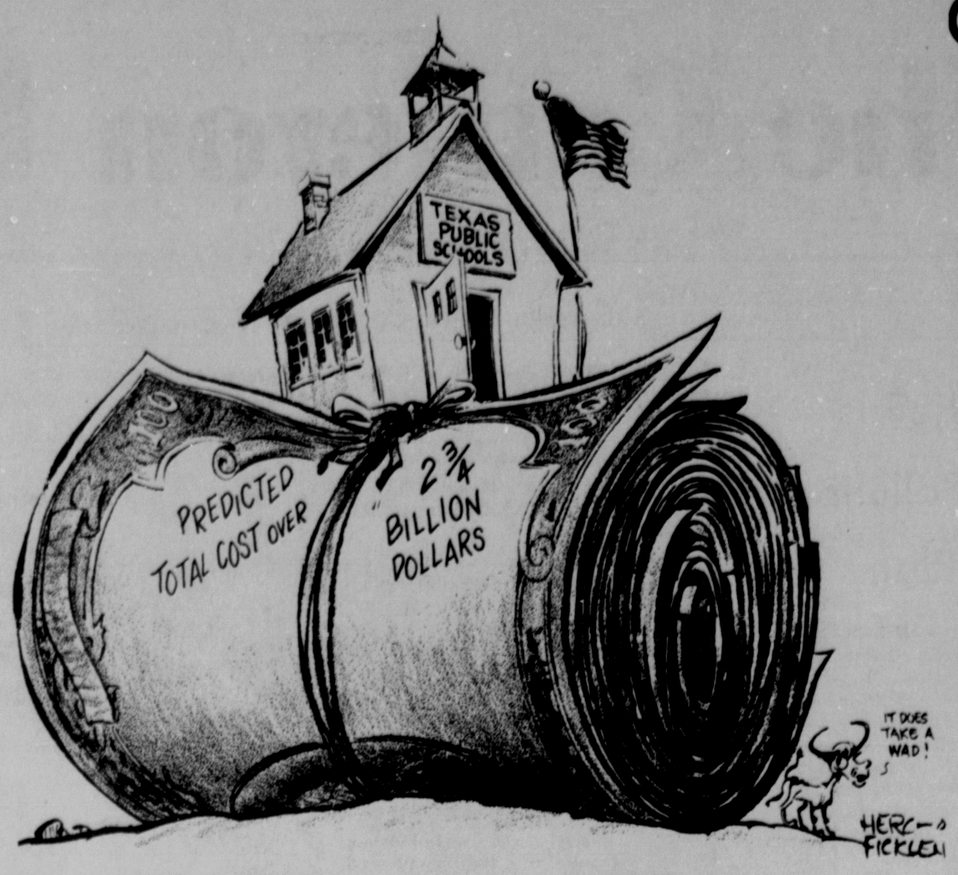
Among the most pitiful victims are new born babies who inherit their mother's addiction and suffer the same agonizing withdrawal symptoms as an adult trying to "kick" the habit.

Nearly 500 babies were born in New York to addicted mothers in 1970 -- the latest year for which figures are available -- and although not all were found to be "hooked" on drugs, many were stunted and suffered other defects.

Most law enforcement officials say the heroin problem is at the root of big city crime. Police sources estimate that more than half of all crimes n New York City are related to narcotics.

To support a 15 dollar-a-day habit an addict many have to steal and re-sell goods worth 50 to 100 dollars. As addiction takes hold and the craving increases, the habit becomes even more costly.

One study commissioned by the Ford Foundation estimated addicts steal about 1,000 million dollars a year in goods and cash in New York City alone. Another study put the figure at 1,800 million dollars just for Harlem, the city's black ghetto where addiction is rife.



EXPENSIVE 'LITTLE RED SCHOOLHOUSE'

Welfare Costs Level Off

AUSTIN

The spiraling cost of welfare in Texas has leveled off, and no reduction in grants will be necessary this year, according to reports reaching Gov. Preston Smith.

Welfare demands are slowing down for the first time in a decade, and expenditures for 1973 may be less than in 1972, the Governor said.

Smith's reports indicated the cost of programs in fiscal 1973 may be $75 million less than the $347 million estimated a year ago.

"It now appears most likely that grant payments to welfare recipients will not have to be cut, and we will still be able to stay within the constitutional limitation on spending," the Governor said.

Due to a state constitutional ceiling on general revenue state expenditures for welfare assistance, a reduction in grants beginning September 1 had been regarded as unavoidable.

Main reason for the slowdown in welfare's cost climb is a decline in old age assistance rolls and the fact that the increase in Aid to Families with Dependent Children eligibility has not been as large as anticipated.

AFDC rolls, expected to expand by 10,000 a month, actually grew about 5,000 monthly.

"There is still much work that needs to be done, but for the first time in recent years I believe we now have a handle on the problems and have finally brought them under control," Smith stated.

He credited these factors as contributing to the cost leveling:

New controls over medical assistance expenses, improved management techniques, a program utilization review more effective use of electronic data processing and a reduction of program abuse.

STARTS ALL OVER AGAIN

With the hard-fought first primary election just behind them, some candidates plunged right into the June 3 runoff campaign.

Of one thing they can be sure: the cost of campaigning, like everything else, is rising.

A hasty total of first primary expense-contribution reports indicates spending by the statewide candidates in contested races totaled more than $5 million. There is no telling how many millions were spent by congressional, legislative and local-county candidates in the rush to be first at the ballot box.

For most of the candidates, the race is over, but for a few the big one is just starting.

INSURANCE PLAN SUBMITTED

A personal injury protection plan for the motorist is proposed by State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver as an alternative to controversial no-fault auto insurance.

Teaver will unveil his plan officially at the Board's annual hearing on auto insurance in July. It would eliminate uninsured motorist coverage and medical payments sections of standard auto policies. It would substitute a provision giving policyholders, without regard to fault in accidents, unlimited medical expenses, life insurance in event of fatal accident and income replacement guarantees.

Governor Smith, meanwhile, called on Teaver to intensify efforts to bring lower insurance rates for responsible young and elderly drivers. A reduction in rates for drivers under 25 would encourage them to drive safely and curb the accident toll, Smith contended.

DEATH RATE LOWER

Department of Public Safety reports the death rate from auto accidents last year was the lowest since 1962.

The number of deaths per 100 million travel miles was 5.1. This is the best figure since 1962's 4.9 per 100 million miles.

Still, 4,594 died in traffic accidents in 1972. Ninety-five per cent, DPS noted, wore no safety seat belts.

UNEMPLOYMENT DROPS

Texas Employment Commission noted a modest increase in the number of labor force participants during March and the lowest unemployment level since May, 1970.

The March unemployment figure was 167,000, representing 3.5 per cent of the work force -- 20,000 fewer than for the same period last year.

Employment for the period increased 29,100. All segments reported gains, and the number of jobholders was up 2.2 per cent over the March a-year-ago figure.

COURTS SPEAK

The U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans asked the U.S. Department of Justice to prepare a plan involving minimum busing of pupils which could be applied to the Austin Independent School District integration appeal.

Texas Supreme Court held a Lubbock nursing home with paying patients only is not entitled to a tax exemption as a charitable institution.

Court of Criminal Appeals reversed convictions in Dallas and Kinney County murder cases and overturned a 35-year prison sentence assessed a Dallas County man for possession of marijuana.

APPOINTMENTS

Governor Smith appointed Frank W. Hustmyre, Orange attorney, district judge of the 128th jucicial district, succeeding Judge James N. Neff who resigned.

House Speaker Rayford Price named to the powerful budget writing appropriations committee Reps. Hilary Doran of Del Rio, vice-chairman; Fred Agnich of Dallas, William Braecklein of Dallas, Harold Davis of Austin, Grant Jones of Abilene, Mike Moncrief of Fort Worth, Walter Parker of Denton, Bryan Poff Jr. of Amarillo, Bill Presnal of Bryan, Robert Salter of Gatesville and Bill Swanson of Houston. Nine others were picked on the basis of seniority. Rep. Bill Finck of San Antonio earlier was selected as chairman.

Alcoa Foundation Gives $5000 To College Group

The Alcoa Foundation has given a $5,000 donation to the Texas Foundation of Voluntarily Supported Colleges and Universities. H. E. Reagan, Public relations manager of Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works presented the gift to Dr. Joseph R. Griggs, president of the Dallas-based organization.

The Alcoa Foundation will give more than $85,000 in grants, scholarships, professorships and fellowships to Texas colleges and universities during 1972, according to Reagan.

The Texas Foundation of Voluntarily Supported Colleges and Universities solicits funds for 26 non-tax supported member schools.

The foundation works primarily with major national and Texas corporations, providing them with a means of supporting the state's private colleges and universities.

"Over 56,000 students are enrolled in the 25 independent colleges served by the foundation," Dr. Griggs said. "These schools turn out 14,000 graduates annually who enter business, teach and take on leadership roles in various Texas communities. Voluntary support from businesses and individuals help make their education possible."

CorpsAnnounces Lake Controls

FORT WORTH

The Corps of Engineers desires to provide the visiting public at Corps lakes a safer and more pleasant recreation experience.

"Nationally, the Corps is host to an annual visitation of about 300 million people," Colonel Henk said. "With such population density on our projects, it has become necessary to add further controls to protect the natural resources of this generation and generations to come."

During the coming summer season, visitors to Corps of Engineers lakes should enjoy improve recreation experiences. Colonel Floyd H. Henk, Fort Worth District Engineer, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, announced that reservoir rangers at Corps-built and operated lakes have been authorized to use citation authority effective May 22 in an effort to reduce environmental misuse.

The citation program will supplement the Corps' water safety education program, in providing better public health and safety practices in Corps recreation areas.

Congress gave the Corps authority to enforce rules set in Title 36 of the Code of Federal Regulations. These rules prohibit the dumping of trash in and around lakes; regulate use of private and commercial boats; care and sanitation of boats and floating facilities; outline rules for swimming, bathing, hunting, and fishing; and set basic guides for camping and picnicking.

Although maximum use of warnings will be exercised by the reservoir ranger, violators receiving citations will have the choice of voluntarily mailing their fines to the U. S. District Clerk or appearing in person before the Federal Magistrate. This citation enforcement program does not assume local police responsibility for enforcement of other laws.

Federal, State, or local law enforcement agencies retain the statutory authority and inherent responsibility to maintain law and order. The Corps will coordinate its citation program with Federal magistrates and local law enforcement agencies.

The Fort Worth District of the Corps is directly responsible for management of most of the recreation areas of its 17 Corpsbuilt lakes and the intervening lands, as well as water surface. This amounts to more than 261,070 acres of water surface and more than 1,834 shoreline miles at these lakes.

Club Hears Book Review

The Pleasure and Profit Club met with Mrs. Robert Clark for the April 27 meeting and a program reviewing the book "Just Wait 'Til You Have Children of Your Own" by Erma Bomback and Bill Kean.

Authors Bomback and Keane shared the experiences of a 'Mon' of teenagers and the family life this entails. Mrs. Clark told how the book opens with a letter of apology written by Bonbeck to Keane to give excuses revolving around family life situations as reasons why she had not begun writing the book.

Mrs. Clark read sections of the book that concerned all stages of teenage growth and development. Some of the activities were mentioned in connection with the conforming stage; shame-of-parent stage, or better known as growing-more-independent stage; the learning-to-drive stage; and getting-ready-for-the-prom stage

The program was concluded by thoughts from the book by the authors to recall that "parentage is often frustration, fearful, worry, pain, disappointment; parentage is more than loving a child."

During the opening social period, club members and one guest, Mrs. Homer Allen, were served a fruit salad, mints, party crackers tea and coffee.

Chinese Players End Happy Tour

By Bruce Russell
Reuter Correspondent

LOS ANGELES The visiting Chinese table tennis players began their tour here stiffly and with a lot of emphasis on formality but they ended it as "one big happy family" with United States players and press, according to tour officials.

The 28-member delegation wound up its visit at Disneyland shaking hands with Mickey Mouse and the Frankenstein, eating hot dogs and playing ping pong with adroit dolphins.

The two-week long tour was part of an exchange begun with a U.S. team's visit to China a year ago aimed at breaking a twenty year freeze in Washington-Peking relations.

One of the tour coordinators, Alex Silva, said the Chinese started to thaw about three days after the cold and protocol-bound opening of their tour in Detroit.

He said the resumption of United States bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong did not produce any noticeable hardening in the attitude of the team.

During their visit to Washington the players chatted with President Nixon who told them of his own visit to Peking earlier this year.

Silva said the Chinese left in no doubt which side had the superior table tennis players.

The Chinese played a total of six exhibitions from Maryland in the east, to Memphis in the south and Los Angeles in the West. They won 34 games and lost 12.

"You only had to watch the Chinese when they were playing against their own team in exhibition matches and you could see how great they were in comparison to when they were playing us," Silva said.

"They went out of their way not to produce a riot and they were extremely good at it."

Silva said in the last match the American might have gained an unfair advantage by putting two fresh players in against the Chinese, exhausted by a hectic entertainment schedule...the Chinese lost three out of their ten matches in Los Angeles.

The Chinese delegation canceled a tour of Los Angeles Harbor Tuesday after being up until 2 o'clock that morning at a champagne dinner to mark the end of the sporting part of their tour.

Tour officials said they were thoroughly relaxed during their Los Angeles visit, fascinated by the tricks of making films during a visit to a studio, and laughing heartily at the antics of the marineland fish.

BUSINESS REVIEW

I. T. Gilbert Is A Top Salesman For Mutual Of Omaha

You win the Master Builders Club award by top salesmanship and service with Mutual of Omaha.

That is what Ivey T. Gilbert, Milam County representative of the famous insurance company, delivers.

He is one of Mutual of Omaha's top 12 salesmen in the country, cited January, 1970, as a member of the Master Builders Club of Mutual of Omaha Insurance and its affiliate, United Benefit Life Insurance Company.

So Gilbert's presentation is timely. And a Mutual of Omaha policy pays and pays and pays, because, he points out of one clause.

He won similar recognition in a plaque presented in January, 1968.

Gilbert is a sales and service representative for Milam County, a responsibility he has held for five years. He has a total of 13 years experience in the insurance sales field.

Four times a year he joins with other representatives of Mutual of Omaha in study course and seminars to update information on today's service needs for both companies and what other companies are offering.

Gilbert cites one policyholder's experience in which the man received $15,000 for one disability for recurring health problems due to the one deficiency.

It is a reoccurrence clause very few health and accident companies provide which can be used over and over and over for the same disability.

Born in Buckholts, Gilbert graduated from Sharp High School before it was consolidated about 15 years ago. He is married, and he and his wife Pat have three children Ronald, 16; Brenda, 13; and Donna, 10. The Gilberts live on West 22nd Street.

We salute you for outstanding achievements during the past year. The exceptional job you have done in offering the best in professional insurance counseling and service to folks in this area has earned you membership in the coveted Presidents Club -- national symbol of excellence.

Why not ask this award-winner to advise you on your personal insurance needs, too? He'll be happy to do so without cost or obligation. Call him today.

Israeli Scholars Digging To Uncover Jerusalem

By Susan Poyas
Reuter Correspondent

JERUSALEM

Israeli scholars are digging here in hope of uncovering the remains of Jerusalem as it was 3,000 years ago.

The probe fits into a general pattern in a country where archaeology has become almost a national pastime. Even prominent politicians and army generals play the game.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan spends most of his free time at historical digs and the former chief of staff, Gen. Yigal Yadin is a world-renowned expert on ancient Israel.

Teams of archaeologists assisted by hundreds of volunteers from both Israel and abroad are excavating sites throughout the country. One of the most exciting projects is the work being done in Jerusalem itself.

Spurred on by the occupation of the old walled city by Israeli troops during 1967 Arab-Israeli war, work has already resulted in finds of remnants of a Jewish temple as it stood in the days of Jesus.

Here, the digging goes on in the very heart of the ancient city, by the ruins of the biblical temple.

During the past five years archaeologists have removed layer after layer of the successive civilizations in the long history of Jerusalem to reach the oldest -- the biblical city of David and Solomon.

The earliest find by the team, led by Prof. Binyamin Mazar of the Hebrew University, is a burial ground south-west of the temple mount, believed to date back to King Solomon's temple, built more than 30 centuries ago.

The most impressive finds go back to a later temple built on the ruins of the first edifice by King Herod. Two staircases leading to what was the market place within the temple compound are the most striking remains.

They probably led to the very courtyard in which, according to the Christian gospels, Jesus angrily drove away the money lenders.

Coins found among the debris may have been used by pilgrims to buy sacrifices in the temple, and the weights unearthed there could have been used by vendors who sold sacrificial lambs and doves.

Among other finds going back to the days before Christ was a large vaulted hall, 10 yards long and seven yards wide, believed to have been a council chamber at the time of the McCabean Jewish kingdom.

Israelis, who are so keen on the links between their modern revived nation and their past, quickly celebrated the archaeological discovery. Within a week, they held a service on the site for the festival of lights, Hanukkah, commemorating a MacCabean victory over invaders when the Jews purified their desecrated temple, in the second century before Christ.

Meanwhile, work continues in an attempt to reach the bedrock of the only remaining section of the wall which surrounded the second temple. This "western wall," popularly known as the "Wailing Wall," has become through the centuries the most sacred shrine of the Jewish people.

Water cisterns hewn in the rock, oil vessels, perfume vials and pottery buried among the ruins, have given the scholars a glimpse into the kind of life which existed in Jerusalem in the time of Christ.

When the archaeologists came upon a square lined with the remains of baths, they said it was perhaps used by road-weary pilgrims before they entered the temple itself.

Many of these finds agree with the descriptions of the temple and its compound as found in the writings of a first century Jewish historian, Josephus Flavius, the scholars say.

Doctors Look For Company In Moving To Small Towns

By William Bender, Jr.
Reuter Correspondent

SWANTON, Ohio

What does a small town do if it desperately wants one doctor to move into the community?

The answer: get two or three instead.

That was the candid advice offered by a group of senior medical students, all interested in family practice, to a special town meeting in this small (population 3,000) community in northwestern Ohio.

"Frankly, I'm scared of becoming the only doctor in a town," said one of the seniors. "I don't want to be overwhelmed by patients.

Another commented, "I grew up in a small town and I'd prefer to practice in one. But I'd look for several doctors about my same age to go there so we could share the burden of patient care. I do not want to work around the clock every day of the year."

The meeting of about 150 people was arranged by Swanton's Rotary and Exchange clubs. It lasted more than two hours while the mayor, chief of police, a state assemblyman, townspeople from all walks of life and students from the medical college of Ohio discussed the pros and cons of bringing new physicians into the community.

The comments could have applied to any of hundreds of non-metropolitan areas grappling with the problems of today's doctor shortage.

The students declared they were collecting a heavy financial burden in getting a medical education and equipping themselves to enter practice. But they expressed no qualms about making an adequate income, and repaying their debts, by practicing in a small community. Nor did they want the exclusive right to be the only practitioner serving the area.

Their greater concern was that they would not have time to enjoy the advantages of living in a small town if they were constantly on call.

As the "only" doctor in town, the students said, they would quickly be torn between the professional responsibilities to patients, and their wish to spend time with their own family for vacations, out-of-town trips or just a leisurely weekend.

Viet Astrologers Advise On Burial Of War Dead

By Michael Fathers
Reuter Correspondent

SAIGON

One of the bitterest ironies of the present fighting in South Vietnam is the huge business flowing to astrologers and soothsayers for selecting the right time to bury war dead.

Rows and rows of dull brown coffins draped with yellow and red striped South Vietnamese flags are lying under awnings at Nighia Trang military cemetery adorned with candles and burning incense sticks waiting to be lowered into the ground at the most auspicious time.

Without this guidance the family and relatives of the slain soldiers fear violence and death will follow on them if their kin are not buried at the right time.

Every day since the North Vietnamese opened their offensive across the demilitarized zone nearly three weeks ago at least 50 coffins have been lined up for burial at the military cemetery a few miles north of Saigon.

There are hundreds of new mounds of red clay covered with fresh and dying floral wreaths and groups of weeping relatives are scattered among the graves waiting to be taken back to Saigon and neighboring villages by military transport.

The graves are some evidence of the heavy casualties the government is taking and contrasts with official statements which say the South Vietnamese have lost few dead and wounded.

The Saigon command claims there have been several thousand North Vietnamese killed in the fighting south of the demilitarized zone, in Long Binh province north of Saigon and in the central highlands. But it has refused to give a definitive total of their own casualties.

Burials at Saigon's military cemetery averaged only one or two a day before the fighting began and a similar dramatic upsurge has been reported at other military cemeteries in South Vietnam's major towns and cities.

Beside a grave an old man was weeping hysterically as soldiers patted into a neat curve the top soil above his 19-year-old son.

St. Calixtus Tomb Found

By Barry Moody
Reuter Correspondent

VATICAN CITY

Vatican archeologists say they have found the tomb of Saint Calixtus -- the oldest tomb of a pope to be discovered apart from the legendary burial place of the first pope, Saint Peter, in the Vatican itself.

The reputed tomb of St. Calixtus, pope from 217 A. D. until his martydom in 222 was located on the Via Aurelia, the road north out or Ancient Rome.

He was already known to have been buried somehwere in the Rome area but the tomb itself had not been identified until now.

St. Calixtus became pope when Christianity was still a partially underground religion in the Roman Empire. He was killed by being thrown into a well when he was discovered baptizing a man in the area across the Tiber River now known as Trastevere.

St. Calixtus was said to have been born in the area and to have founded the church of Santa Maria in Trastevere, one of the oldest in Rome.

His body was removed from the well by Christians and taken first to the tomb but later moved into the church of Santa Maria.

But it was the fact that he was martyred there which led to St. Calixtus apparently being buried on the nearby Via Aurelia.

The archaeologists identified the tomb from a series of fragments of frescoes on its walls depicting the martyrdom of Calixtus.

In one fragment a man dressed in yellow and wearing a type of papal hat is being thrown into a well by two men. Also on the fragment are the letters "TUS" -- taken to come from the end of his name "PUTE", -- the beginning of the word puteus (well).

Another fragment shows the saint being buried and lowered into a casket while another figure raises his hand in blessing.

St. Calixtus was a slave who was condemned to forced labor in the Sardinian mines but was released in a general amnesty and entered the service of Pope Victor (189-199 A.D.)

Later, during the papacy of Zephyrinus, he was placed in charge of the Christian cemetery on the Appian Way, south of Rome.

The catacombs of St. Calixtus, the largest early Christian burial places in Rome, are so named not because he was buried there but because he administered them.

S-M Water Supply Corp. Holds Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Southwest Milam Water Supply Corporation was held April 22, in Rockdale. A rather small group assembled for the second annual meeting. Among those present were Henry Ivey, FHA Administrator, and Roger Erickson, engineer in charge of the project now under contract.

Two amendments of the by-laws were amended: Artilcle XIII pertaining to the business of the Corporation and Article XIV changing the due dates and cut-off dates on water services. The due date was amended from the 5th of the month to the 10th of the month and the cut-off date was moved to the 20th of the month.

It was also resolved that any member, who had not paid his bill by the 20th of the month would be charged $5 fee for collection of his bill or reconnection of his water service.

A resolution on dead meters was also adopted. Members were asked to contact the corporation if they had no plans of using their water service, so their water certificate could be sold through the Corporation to a customer desiring service.

Three board members whose terms were expiring, were re-elected: B. B. McAnulty, Billy Boyd, and Walter Wentzel.

Ivey discussed briefly the water program and its present status. Several communities were delayed due to unallocated funds for a change in the size pipe used for main lines. The need for an additional $290,000 to service those members delayed from the original contract was presented to the members. This was discussed at length, followed by a passing vote to apply for the additiona loan to complete the original contract.

Erickson also clarified some questions pertaining to the present construction. A brief explanation of the water bill stub was given. Each member will read his meter each month and return the water bill stub with current month's payment.

At a called meeting of the board of directors held immediately following the annual meeting, officers for the coming years were elected: Claude Spence, president; Billy Boyd, vice president; John D. Yoakum, secretary-treasurer.

To date 275 customers are receiving water supplied by the corpoation. The present contract will service 447 customers with another approximately 100 delayed customers in the areas of Hanover, Chriesman, Blackjack and Tanglewood.

The coporation is taking applications for an extension to conceivably service customers in the communities of San Gabriel, Hare, Sandoval, Lanesport and Friendship.

Legal forces which may determine a small businessman's survival will be explored in a four-session workshop conducted May 9, 11, 16 and 18 by the Small Business Administration in cooperation with McLennan Community College and the Waco Chamber of Commerce.

Insight for the independent businessman into legal relationships will be discussed by professional and business leaders of the City of Waco. DOORS OF YOE

By Marilyn Hauk

The end of school is steadily approaching. It is quite noticeable about two in the afternoon when the heat magically makes little heads droop and the wriggling of restless students is observed. I think that the teachers are happier about the coming summer vacation than anyone!

Everyone has some kind of pet, some normal, some unusual. Mike Trdy must be one of the unusual ones, for Saturday he drove to Marlin to get a chicken.

The Band Bar-B-Q was held Thursday night. One of the guests had her invitation signed by over twenty people, then ended up with cupcake in her hair. (Poor Patty Elsenburg.)

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Architectural Aids

New concepts developed in Oklahoma using architecture to aid in the treatment of mental illness have been attracting attention in professional circles here and abroad.

This was evidenced earlier this year when a presentation was made in Denmark at an international meeting of psychiatrists describing facilities recently built at Central State Griffin Memorial Hospital, in Norman, Oklahoma.

The Norman facilities, said Dr. Hayden Donahue, were designed to provide new methods of delivering services to the mentally ill. Doctor Donahue, a widely known mental health leader, heads the Oklahoma State mental health program, which is noted for its innovative approaches and activities.

Four main buildings are featured in the Central State program. First to be built was a Vocational Rehabilitation Center. Many patients spend their nights at the Center and work at nearby jobs during the day.

The other buildings are: a community mental health center, a veterans' geriatric building, and a children's center.

"The four buildings are designed just backwards from the normal hospital," says Dr. Donahue, "where the patient is kept in bed. We fight every step of the way to keep them out of the hospital and out of bed."

Each building has unique "patient government rooms" for early morning meetings, large day rooms, and vocational training programs.

The children's center is designed around school rooms, each intended for only eight or nine children. The living wards will provide many children with a room of their own, perhaps for the first time in their lives. Among other special features are:

. . . A practice house in the vocational building to train women in household arts;

. . . Design and architecture in the children's center intended solely for the seriously ill child;

. . . Bath and shower combinations for each 2 to 4 patients, a sharp departure from some hospitals where as many as 200 patients use a single bath facility; and

. . . Dual television coverage of special treatment rooms to allow use of television in training and treatment.

Dr. Donahue says that the treatment concepts were developed through two years of research and that the new buildings were "constructed around the concepts." Integrated architectural and program planning like this takes time and hard, focussed work, but from the activities underway in Oklahoma it certainly seems worthwhile to make architecture aid mental health.

Rain doesn't always make things grow.

Last year bad weather helped kill over 11,000 people. Good-weather drivers did the rest. Drivers who drive like it's summer all year long.

Slick streets greatly increase the chances of a skid, but that doesn't make the good-weather driver go any slower. Rain, ice, and snow almost double the distance needed to stop, but that doesn't stop him from following too closely. Bad weather can drastically limit visibility, but that doesn't make him any more cautious.

You know the kind of driver we mean. Watch out for him. And make sure you're a good bad-weather driver. We want you and your family to be around to enjoy the good weather.
